The Oxfordshire Autism Alert Card gives:

- Simple, practical advice
- Cardholder's name
- Names and telephone numbers for 2 emergency contacts – these may be family members, carers or friends of the cardholder, who have agreed to be a contact on the card

Our credit card sized autism alert card should be carried at all times and be shown if you find yourself in a situation where you need help or need to give an explanation

It will also assist Thames Valley Police and other emergency services to identify that they are dealing with someone on the autism spectrum.

People in other areas have found the Alert card useful. Here are some of their comments:

“Change of attitude by police, tone of voice and use of language changed, became less threatening to me”

“We use the card when we go out on trips; it has improved our confidence as parents to go out and about more frequently”

“If I am going to a crowded place I will take it with me”

“People give more time to answer and I was calmer. I move a lot and wave my hands, I talk too much and this can be a problem to people”

“Yes the policeman helped advise me on how to get home I think he was more helpful because I showed him my card.”

*“It is a brilliant idea either in custody or at the roadside to help recognise autism behaviour, which could be (in other circumstances) perceived as S5 etc.”
